

Solar magnetism eXplorer (SolmeX)

Exploring the magnetic field in the upper atmosphere of our closest star

Hardi Peter · L. Abbo · V. Andretta · F. Auchère · A. Bemporad · F. Berrilli · V. Bommier · A. Braukhane · R. Casini · W. Curdt · J. Davila · H. Dittus · S. Fineschi · A. Fludra · A. Gandorfer · D. Griffin · B. Inhester · A. Lagg · E. Landi Degl’Innocenti · V. Maiwald · R. Manso Sainz · V. Martínez Pillet · S. Matthews · D. Moses · S. Parenti · A. Pietarila · D. Quantius · N.-E. Raouafi · J. Raymond · P. Rochus · O. Romberg · M. Schlotterer · U. Schühle · S. Solanki · D. Spadaro · L. Teriaca · S. Tomczyk · J. Trujillo Bueno · J.-C. Vial

Received: 30 March 2011 / Accepted: 2 November 2011 / Published online: 30 November 2011
© Springer Science+Business Media B.V. 2011

Abstract The magnetic field plays a pivotal role in many fields of Astrophysics. This is especially true for the physics of the solar atmosphere. Measuring the magnetic field in the upper solar atmosphere is crucial to understand the nature of the underlying physical processes that drive the violent

H. Peter (✉) · W. Curdt · A. Gandorfer · B. Inhester · A. Lagg · U. Schühle · S. Solanki · L. Teriaca
Max-Planck-Institut für Sonnensystemforschung, 37191 Katlenburg-Lindau, Germany e-mail: peter@mps.mpg.de

L. Abbo · A. Bemporad · S. Fineschi
INAF Osservatorio Astronomico di Torino, Torino, Italy

V. Andretta
INAF Osservatorio Astronomico di Capodimonte, Napoli, Italy

F. Auchère · J.-C. Vial
Institut d’Astrophysique Spatiale, Orsay, France

F. Berrilli
Università degli Studi di Roma “Tor Vergata”, Rome, Italy

V. Bommier
LESIA, Observatoire de Paris-Meudon, Meudon, France

A. Braukhane · H. Dittus · V. Maiwald · D. Quantius · O. Romberg · M. Schlotterer
DLR Institute of Space Systems, Bremen, Germany

R. Casini · S. Tomczyk
NCAR/High Altitude Observatory, Boulder, CO, USA