Factors and effective components of sustainable economic development in developing countries due to systemic barriers

Hamid Sarmadi: PhD student in political science at Tehran University Research
Morteza badri: PhD student in political science at Tehran University Research

Abstract:
The purpose of this paper is to examine the contribution of the economic development process and influence the development of stable and efficient system sustainable Third World countries in global equations and their relations with the developed countries. Authors, political development and economic development rather than as two separate characters and heterogeneous, but as two parallel and interconnected trends and their relation to the total public knows, and knows their relationship is not a priority, but in parallel.. The research method is as C-library.

Key words: Human capital, economical development, private, Third World